STUDYING AND UNDERSTANDING THE IMPACT OF INTERNATIONAL MIGRATION

Our commitment is to promote a better understanding of migration and support intercultural dialogue

We are an independent research institute engaging in the study of migratory phenomena and intercultural dialogue since 1991. We work with institutions, schools, universities, research centres, civil society and international organisations.

OUR APPROACH COMBINES RESEARCH DESIGN AND IMPLEMENTATION

ISMU relies on a Scientific Committee gathering experts from many different research areas.

The Foundation focuses around seven areas of expertise: Statistics, Legislation, Education, Economy and Labour, Health and Welfare, Family and Minors, Religions.

Research

Our main research areas and outputs include

- Data and statistics on migration flows and foreign population
- Labour market analysis and diversity management
- Migrant health and welfare
- Religious identity
- Integration of migrant families and minors
- Presence and inclusion of students with migratory backgrounds in schools and intercultural education
- Analysis of European and national migration policies
- The interconnection between migration and development of countries of origin

ISMU manages an online database from sources such as ISTAT, national institutes and public bodies, ministries and research centres as well as European and international research initiatives.

Publications

Every year we publish our Annual Migration Report, papers and reports disseminating the results of our research as well as handbooks and specific training tools for teachers and other practitioners.

Projects

We design and implement projects on migrant's reception and integration, education and interculturalism in collaboration with our partners. Thanks to funding also from the Italian government and the European Commission, we have implemented more than 150 projects on migration since 1991. These projects focus on the following areas

- integration
- refugees and the asylum system
- anti-discrimination
- minors and youth
- employment
- health and welfare
- multilingualism and Italian as a foreign language
- interculturalism

Training

We provide specific training for teachers and educators, professionals in the field of social, psychological and medical care, mediators, journalists and communication experts, and other practitioners involved in the field of migration, namely on the reception and integration of migrants.

ISMU is a training centre accredited by Italy's Ministry of Education, the National Register of Journalists and the National Register of Social Workers.

CeDoc Documentation Centre

ISMU Documentation Centre (CeDoc) is a public space gathering different resources related to international migration and intercultural exchange. Our collection includes over 13,000 publications, more than 1,000 digital publications and 100 journals on migration-related issues.

Partnership

ISMU's strategic partners include

- Institutions and public authorities
- Agencies and international organizations
- Research institutes
- Civil society
- Universities, schools and other learning centres
- Businesses and other private bodies

ISMU is part of several international networks such as

- International Migration, Integration and Social Cohesion (IMISCOE)
- International Metropolis Project
- Children Left Behind
